Rosemary George (New York) Broadway And All That Jazz

Rosemary George Returns to Leicester Square with her New Broadway/Jazz Show

New York, NY, 29 March 2015—Critically acclaimed singer Rosemary George returns to Leicester Square Theatre this summer with her new cabaret act Broadway And All That Jazz. In the intimate setting of The Lounge, Rosemary will be joined by two world class pianists, London's John Turville and New York's Lloyd Arriola. The audience will be transported to a uniquely American musical experience from Broadway composers who left a legacy of a New York that once was and is no longer. From My Funny Valentine and Them There Eyes to Man I Love and Stormy Weather, the hits keep on coming. There are also a few surprises for Sondheim lovers, as well as selections from popular British musicals.

Rosemary George has been treating audiences around the globe to her unique shows. In 2013, she performed Stupid Cupid: The Girl Group Era in the Main House of Leicester Square Theatre, and recently in 2014 at Edinburgh Festival Fringe (C Nova). Other UK performances include Jermyn Street Theatre, The Barbican Centre, St. James's Piccadilly, as well as major festivals abroad. New York performances include Avery Fisher Hall, Carnegie Hall, and The National Gallery of Art. For three seasons, Covent Garden hosted Rosemary's performances and workshops at The Theatre Museum celebrating the legacy of America's pop music—Armstrong, Holiday, Gershwin, and Sondheim.
